

ABSTRACT

- 5 Method for tying together objects, in particular for fixing bone parts by a surgical cable comprising the steps of laying the surgical cable, having two end parts, around at least part of the objects to be tied together, in particular the bone parts to be fixed, exerting a force on the end parts bringing the cable under a tension required for the fixing of the bone parts and locking the tensioned cable against the influence of forces acting counter to the exerted force.